Autonomy

The ground floor apartment is part of The Oaks residential home for adults with learning disabilities and complex needs. These may include behaviours that challenge, autism and other associated issues.

The apartment provides accommodation for three people. It is especially suitable for those who have mobility issues or prefer to live in a smaller setting and who may require more intensive support.

We believe that anyone living at The Oaks should have the same care and opportunities as they would in their own home. That's why we recognise, respect and support individuality, encouraging people to take as much control of their lives and decision making as they can, while offering care, support and guidance.

Our specialist team are experts in person-centred assistance and our range of services and strategies can help individuals to manage complex behaviours effectively.

"Staff make things very easy even in difficult situations. I appreciate what they do and they always go beyond their call of duty"
